

Joseph Anda

Front-End Developer

Who I am

I am an up-and coming front-end developer with experience in C++, Javascript, Ruby w/Rails, HTML and CSS. I am using what I have learned so far to construct a portfolio in which I can showcase my skills.

What I do

As a front-end developer, my job is to engineer websites that are well adapted to an ever-changing web environment. This means responsive designs that can adapt to a variety of devices and screen sizes, as well as serve the needs of the end users and stakeholders alike!

